Nashville, TN (June 29, 2022) – The Nashville Chapter of the Association of Independent Music Publishers (AIMP) has launched the fifth season of its podcast series, the AIMP Nashville Pubcast. Hosted by Tim Hunze, Vice President of Publishing at Big Machine Music and an AIMP Nashville Board Member, the bi-weekly series features interviews with some of the most prominent songwriters and music publishing industry figures in Nashville. The AIMP Nashville Pubcast aims to give insight to songwriters who are maneuvering their careers, inform listeners on the issues facing the music industry, and share lessons learned from its guests’ own experiences.

Seven episodes of season 5 have already been released, featuring respected music industry experts Dennis and Jesse Matkoksy of Relative Music Group, Olly Sheppard of APG, Marc Rucker of SoundExchange, Randall Foster of Symphonic Distribution, music industry advocate Alex Heiche, Shelby Yoder of Milk & Honey, and Mike Molinar and Alex Heddle of Big Machine Music.

“Season 5 has had an amazing lineup of guests so far and some of our best interviews yet,” said Tim Hunze, host of the AIMP Nashville Pubcast. “It has been such a fun opportunity for me to be a part of this podcast the past few years. I am fortunate to witness how it has evolved and the impact it has had on people within our industry.”

“This AIMP Nashville Pubcast is a great opportunity for people who are actively involved and interested in independent music publishing to find inspiration and knowledge,” said John Ozier, AIMP National Chair and President of the Nashville Chapter. “It is important to our organization that we provide a platform for independent publishers and songwriters in the Nashville area to share their stories, advice, and expertise on the music industry. Season 5 is our best yet.”
